Wahelo's Weekly Meet.

The "Wahelo Club" held its weekly meeting at the Maase on Wednesday Sept. 28. The meeting was a devotion event, the Rev W E Sieber giving a most interesting talk entitled "Hymns and Hymn Writers." The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction, after which a delightful lunch was served.

The club extends a most cordial invitation to all young people of the community who are interested to attend the weekly meetings.

The Royal Turkey.

One of the biggest Tom turkeys to pay Stony a visit was on view last Friday at Mr Larson's Royal Cafe. Tom had come from the farm of a prominent resident of Holborn district, and he balanced the scales, dressed, around 33 lbs. His stay as one integral unit, in Stony, was short lived, however. Mr Larson had Tom in the oven all morning, and the Royal's patrons did the dissecting at the noon-hour. The Editor got the right limb (as polite people call it), and it was deced lightful—as old Teddy Roosevelt used to say it.

The Hebrew Holidays.

Judaism commenced its solemn season of ten days on Friday last, New Year, in Hebrew Ros ha Shanah. The new year is the year 5693 from the creation of the world, according to the Bible. It began Friday last, Sept. 30, at sunset, and lasted one day. The season culminates in and ends with the Day of Atonement, called Yom Kippur. It is the greatest and oldest festival of the Jewish race. The Yom Kippur will be celebrated from Sunday Eve. next, Oct. 8, to sunset of the following day. Four days after the conclusion of the solemn season, Friday, Oct. 14, at sundown, the joyous season of Succoth, Tabernacles, commences and lasts eight days.

"Fresh from the Gardens"

The Sun Is Shining.

As the writer sits down before his typewriter to type out this article, bright sunshine, typical of these beautiful Indian summer days on the prairies, is streaming through the window, while there is that invigorating tang in the air which leads one to throw back their head and draw in a lungful. The sun is shining, and in these days when we are all too prone to dwell on the dark side of things, it is well to remember that the sun is still there, shining away as strong as ever, the only difficulty being the clouds that intervene to obscure our vision.

The sun still shines, not only in the actual meaning of the words in the physical world, but in the sense that there is much of brightness and warmth in life itself. Admittedly there are still difficulties ahead for many people, there are very acute problems to be solved, not only by individuals, but by communities and governments. These difficulties must be overcome, and solutions for these problems found, but there is not a very large ray of sunshine indeed in the knowledge that never before in the history of mankind were so many people, including the keenest brains in all countries, devoting their time, their intellects, their energies, to searching out and testing the efficiency of the remedies to be applied. The world knows there is something out of joint somewhere and there is surely comfort and satisfaction in the knowledge that people are not just letting things drift in the hope that something will turn up to bring about a betterment, but, on the contrary, are tackling the problem from all angles with a view to effecting that betterment and to preventing a recurrence of present difficulties.

Some people, who talk as if they believed the sun had been finally and forever blotted out, keep on circulating pessimistic views to the effect that the moral character of people is breaking down, that they are losing their initiative, that, instead of retaining confidence in themselves and a pride in their own achievements, they are willing to become the mere hirelings of the state. In the prevailing atmosphere of gloom in which such people surround themselves, they see growing up a generation of loafers and criminals. In this a true picture? If it is, how can one account for such a highly desirable state of things, as reported in the Toronto Globe, that during the recent Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto nearly a million and a half people passed through its gates, and in all that time not one arrest on a major charge was made. As the Globe says this is a remarkable record.

The Globe says further that there were but two fires, and these of no great consequence; further evidence of the common sense exercised by dwellers in what for the time-being was a great city exposed to the dangers besetting all densely populated urban areas. There is no evidence in those reports that Canadian people are losing their normal grip, inclined to disregard the law and to engage in reckless, irresponsible acts.

The sun is shining. The spirit of helpfulness which rose to great heights during the tragic years of the war still lives in the hearts and minds of our people. It was displayed last year when people in the older sections of Canada shipped trainloads of supplies to assist and comfort their fellow-citizens in the drought-afflicted areas of Saskatchewan. It is being displayed this year within the confines of that Province by a great rallying together of people who "have" in order that they may give to those who, again this year unfortunately, "have not." It reminds one of the war days when Red Cross branches, Patriotic Fund committees, and other organizations with like objects were organized and active in even the smallest hamlet and rural district, to now read of the organization of voluntary rural relief committees in areas where there are crops, albeit not very profitable, to assist the people in the smaller areas where, again this year, there have been no crops.

The sun is shining in the hearts of those who are building up and supporting these voluntary relief committees, and the sun will be shining in the homes to which such aid is extended.

And the clouds are growing thinner and lifting. Every now and then a ray of sun flickers through because it has never ceased shining. The clouds will finally break and disappear, and the sun burst forth in all its splendour and life-giving warmth. Despite all our discouragements, let us keep our courage, just as we are, as a people, clinging steadfastly to our old-time concepts of honesty, morality, industry and respect for the laws and institutions of our country.

What is believed to be the most remarkable forest in the world has been found on the west coast of Africa. No tree bears more than two leaves, which attain a length of six feet and breadth of two feet. The forest covers a tableland six miles in width.

French Taking To Tea

Customs Reports Show Imports Doubled In Two Years

People of France, long noted for their wines, are taking to tea. Customs returns show that in the last two years imports of tea have doubled. Moreover, the leaves for the beverage, which formerly came through England, now are shipped direct from India and Ceylon to Marseilles, Havre and Bordeaux. Experts say the change is the result of the importation of better tea, and the teaching of how to get best results in using the hard Paris water in tea making.

Wood Regains World's Speedboat Record

American Pilot Averaged over 124 Miles An Hour

Gar Wood regained the world's speedboat record by sending his "Miss America X," catapulting twice over a measured mile on the St. Clair River at Algonac, Mich., at an average speed of 124.91 statute miles an hour. The former record, 119.75 miles an hour, was made on Loch Lomond, Scotland, July 18 last, by Kaye Don, British speedboat pilot, who tried unsuccessfully to wrest the Harmsworth trophy from Wood.

Wood, after the record-breaking run, said "Miss America's" four 12-cylinder engines had not been wide open in the effort and he thought the big, mahogany-hulled thunderbolt could go faster. "How much faster, I can't say," he said. "The motors were making 2,500 revolutions per minute. Their limit, with safety, is 2,700 revolutions per minute."

Price Offer Did Not Suit Onions Growers of Brittany

When growers of onions in the vicinity of Roscoff, Brittany, could not get the price desired for the yields of their small farms last season, they formed a syndicate, chartered a small sailing vessel, loaded on it 60 tons of onions, and sailed for Scotland. Carrying long strings of the onions on their backs they went from door to door in Glasgow and other cities peddling their wares. When the cargo had been sold the powers figured up and found that the net profit was much larger than had they sold the vegetables at home.

Dickens' Books Popular

Demand For Works Exceeds Supply Says London Librarian

The man who made Christmas—Charles Dickens—is as popular as ever among book-lovers. A London librarian, discussing what the public reads, has revealed that Dickens' works are demanded more frequently than they can be supplied. Scott, however, seems to be out of favor. Dickens also figures in a list of the thirteen books most widely read by girls over twelve in another big public library. It includes "David Copperfield" and "The Old Curiosity Shop." Boys also stick to the old favorites, but they actually prefer books in which the flavor of adventure is stronger. "Robinson Crusoe," "King Solomon's Mines," "The Swiss Family Robinson," and "Treasure Island" are well up on the list. But, of course, certain of the classics are prescribed by teachers for home reading, and that may boost up the demand for them.

This lady says her curtains look like new

A letter from a lady in Quebec tells about the wonderful success she has had in freshening and recoloring her old living room curtains. "They were so grey and dull looking they made the whole room look shabby. Yet they were perfectly good and I couldn't afford new ones. A neighbor told me about a new kind of tints called Diamond Tints, made by the makers of Diamond Dyes. I know the splendid quality of Diamond Dyes—have used them often for dyeing dark garments. My neighbor explained that Diamond Tints are for lighter shades and they need no boiling. I got a package of Ecu and gave my curtains a good rinse in the tint water. When my daughter came home she asked where I got my new curtains! They surely do look as crisp and fresh as when brand new and they cheer up the whole room!"

Plan To Establish Orchards

Saskatchewan Undertakes Ambitious Fruit Growing Campaign
Hon. J. P. Bryant, K.C., who as Saskatchewan's Minister of Public Works in charge of the Institutional Farms, has been promoting the campaign of fruit growing in the Province, issued this statement to the press yesterday: "The present fruit-growing campaign and the establishment of orchards on the Institutional Farms of the Provincial Government."

When Mr. J. E. Park was chosen as provincial gardener we had in view the matter of promoting the growth of fruit in the Province of Saskatchewan through the Institutional Farms of the province, and we secured a man who is capable of carrying out this scheme. We were fortunate, indeed, in securing Mr. Park in view of his long experience in connection with fruit growing work in Western Canada. He is a graduate of the Manitoba Agricultural College where he specialized in horticulture, with five years practical experience in charge of the fruit orchards at the Manitoba College, doing experimental work in fruit and during part of the time lecturing on fruit growing to the diploma class of the Manitoba Agricultural College. This work was followed by six months training including plant breeding with special attention to fruit work at the graduates school at the University of Minnesota.

Following this Mr. Park put in five years as assistant superintendent in charge of horticultural work at the Experimental Farm at Rothstein where he was in charge of all experiments in horticulture and is familiar with fruit growing in all its branches in the prairie provinces.

The centre of the Saskatchewan Government fruit-growing campaign will be the nurseries on the Experimental Buildings grounds at Regina, where a large acreage is available and where in the first instance some ten acres will be set aside for the nursery as a fruit trial ground. This area will be surrounded at one end by a caragana hedge with the trees planted eighteen inches apart, as they are intended to grow tall for a shelter belt. Spruce trees and willow cuttings also will be planted around this area in order to get a quick shelter belt. The willows will then be removed when the permanent ash, elm and spruce have grown up. A proper shelter belt is the most important feature in connection with a fruit orchard on the prairies.

The orchard space will be divided into sections by rows of caragana planted every two hundred feet crosswise in the orchard. Dividing each two hundred foot row will be a row of spruce trees planted four feet apart in the row. The rows of fruit trees for general fruiting will be planted sixteen feet apart and at least eight feet apart in the row. Between the two sixteen foot rows will be planted rows of small fruits to hold the snow. These will consist of black, white and red currants, which will grow from cuttings, and gooseberries which are grown by mounding up the gooseberry bushes and cutting out the cuttings from the live plant. In addition to this, rows of raspberries will be planted out. We expect to get the fruitings of gooseberries, currants and raspberries this fall and either plant them outside or heel them in.

This is the general type of the plan for the orchards and similar orchards of ten acres will be laid out at the Institutional Farm at North Battleford and at the Institutional Farm in connection with the Gaol at Prince Albert. Five acre orchards will be laid out at the Institutional Farm in connection with the Mental Hospital, Weyburn, the Regina Gaol, and the Mooseomin Gaol.

In the nursery grounds at Regina it is intended this fall to plant pits of plums, cherries and plum cherry hybrids, and apple and crabapple seeds. In addition to this the seeds of hardy Siberian crabapples and native plums will be planted for root stock on which to bud the plums, apples and crabapples with buds from the named varieties. We are intending to get pits and buds of named varieties and plant them in order that fruit may be raised from the seedlings. We intend getting as many named varieties of apples, crabapples and plums as possible to test. All these will be budded stock and will be planted in the nursery in the spring. From these we get the buds which are used in grafting on native plum and Siberian Crabapple trees after the nursery is ready when whenever we get an find good bud wood on these named varieties. We intend getting an experienced propagator accustomed to this kind of work on the prairie in order to get the supply of named varieties on hand at the Government nursery at Regina which can be distributed to the other Institutional Farms, the propagation work being done only at the Regina Nursery.

At each of the five Institutional Farms this fall we intend to plant seeds from named varieties of native plum and Siberian crabapple for root stock. The seedlings from named varieties are going to be planted out and permitted to fruit as in this way we may get new and original stock for budding purposes. All the seedlings of the apples, crabapples and all named varieties will be tested out for fruit bearing at the Institutional

Farms, but all budded stock will come from Regina.

The planting of plum pits and apple seeds does not produce trees true to the stock from which they come but often develops new and hardy varieties. Every seedling apple, crabapple or plum is a new variety. These come from good varieties but with hardy native blood in their veins become harder as they are moved north by selection. The hardy variety will fruit at the point where grown from seed, being raised for budding stock if they produce good fruit and in this way often the fruit line for many varieties may be moved two or three hundred miles north. This has proven the case at the Morden Experimental Farm which is the chief horticultural station in Western Canada. Here one hundred and twenty-five acres of land are devoted to horticultural experiments and over three hundred acres of plums are growing; also the standard varieties of apples including the new "Melba" apple which is being perfected at that point. Some eleven years ago they first worked these varieties of plums on wild native plum stock and did the same with the apples and have produced wonderful results.

The pioneer in this work in the Morden district was the late Mr. Stevenson who for nearly forty years carried on experimental work and as a result of which he has grown as many as six hundred barrels of apples on his farm in one season. In this way many named varieties produced in districts further south have become acclimatized and grown to perfection in different parts of the province of Saskatchewan.

This work is being undertaken on the Institutional Farms of Saskatchewan in order to promote the general growth of fruit in the province. Individual efforts have shown that it can be grown in practically any part of the province, but owing to lack of knowledge on the subject very few have undertaken it. The Institutional Farms are situated in different climatic belts, in different soil belts, and valuable experience can be obtained in each area for those who are interested in fruit growing in the home and for the purpose of the purpose therefore by planting orchards at each of the Institutional Farms to supply the fruit for the patients of the Mental Hospitals. It is planned to use the Institutional Farms as demonstration farms in order that the farmers from the surrounding country may visit them to see what can be done in the way of growing fruit in their neighborhood. It is also intended to carry on experimental work at the different points to prove the varieties best suited for the different localities and also to try to develop hardy native plums in different varieties by experimental work and by budding on native plum, cherry and wild fruit roots.

This work will be carried on at practically no additional expense to the province as it is planned to get the pits from the plum and cherry trees and apple and crabapple seeds from the different experimental farms in Saskatchewan and Manitoba. We extend a public invitation to those who have carried on fruit growing in Saskatchewan with success to give as a public contribution such plums, cherry pits, apple and crabapple seeds as they have to spare to the nearest Institutional Farm, and we would be pleased if they would name the variety of seed in different parcels that they forward, and send the parcels of such seed as they can spare to Dr. J. W. McNeill, Mental Hospital, North Battleford; Dr. A. D. Campbell, Mental Hospital, Weyburn; Mr. Park Forsythe, Warden, Provincial Gaol.

Prince Albert; J. E. Park, Provincial Landscape Gardener, Parliament Buildings, Regina; Colonel Sharpe, Warden, Provincial Gaol, Mooseomin. We would like the donors of these seeds and pits to forward them to the Institutional Farm nearest to the point where they reside.

The work in connection with the orchards will not occasion additional expense because at most of the Institutional Farms there are graduates of the Agricultural Colleges to take charge, and there is plenty of patient labor at the Mental Hospital, and jail labor at the jails.

The Saskatchewan Government has between four and five thousand acres of land in the Institutional Farms with experienced men in charge of each farm and we are prepared to try out anything in the fruit line for any of the nurseries of experimental farms when they have developed some new variety and desire to have it tested in different parts of the province. We intend as soon as our orchards are established to commence the work of sending to the nurseries or the Experimental Farms new varieties which we may develop.

We believe that in starting these orchards and this experimental work we are doing the work that we are taking a forward step in fruit growing which will eventually result in the growth of a large number of seedlings of different kinds on his grounds and who has one of the most extensive fruit breeding programmes under way in Western Canada. Dr. Paterson, however, has not enough room at his disposal for the planting out of the different types of seedlings in order to try them out for fruiting, and we are also in cooperation and endeavor to assist in his work by planting and recording the results of the work at our different Institutional Farms.

We are also intending to cultivate grapes as these have been grown with successful results at parts of Manitoba and Saskatchewan. This year a grape vine in the garden of the Government Experimental Farm, formerly the former Landscape Gardener, Mr. George Watt, bore nearly twelve quarts of ripe grapes. The grapes were sweet and good to eat. In addition to being excellent for jam and for making wine. The seeds of all these grapes that we have been keeping and are being planted in the nursery for the purpose of propagating this type of grape. The grapes they will in due course be distributed to the Institutional Farms.

Explanations and Comments

The Development Of The Boy Jesus, Luke 2:40-52. The boy Jesus became strong and wise, and the grace of God was upon Him. It is a story of the development of the Christ had human, progressive childhood.

The Bethany Home With His Two Types Of Womenhood, Luke 10:38-42. —Jesus was a frequent Guest of Lazarus, Martha and Mary in their home at Bethany. One occasion Mary sat at His feet and heard His word, while Martha was cumbered about such serving. Martha was worried, and she felt that she was being unjustly treated in having all the work to do alone. Impatiently she said to Jesus, "Lord, dost Thou not care that my sister did leave me to serve alone?"

But Jesus answered her that she help me. "Desire the influence of her word Jesus answered her thus: 'Martha, Martha,' He said, 'thou art anxious and troubled about many things; but one thing is needful.' Moffatt's translation of the last clause reads, 'one thing alone is necessary.' Both sisters were wont to sit at Jesus' feet and listen to His words; both helped to spread the Good News. Mary returned to Jesus when what was prepared was adequate as she thought. But Martha wished to serve a more pretentious meal—one of several dishes—in order better to honor the Lord. In whole points of Jesus' words to her, then, was to warn Martha against herself. He did not wish his visit to turn her into a drudge. He desired that she also sit at His feet and learn. 'For Mary hath chosen the good part, which shall not be taken away from her.' Not yours in bustling about, Martha, but hers in the good part of ministering, not to her body, but to her spirit's need for sympathy and understanding. It will not be taken from her now by my bidding her to help you, and is of such a character that she will never lose it."

RUNS UPSTAIRS AT 92

Daughter's Pride In Active Father

"I feel in duty bound," writes Mrs. A. W. W., "to express my gratitude for the marvellous results my father has obtained from Kruschen Salts. They should really be called 'Miracles.' He is ninety-two years old, and as fit as a fiddle. He can pick up, and run up and down stairs. His friends marvel when they see he is always alert, and never feels sluggish. He always tells them the reason for his regular daily dose of Kruschen Salts every morning." We always recommend Kruschen Salts to all our friends. To my idea no family should be without it." (Mrs.) A. J. W.

Most people grow old long before their time because they neglect one vital need of health—the need for internal cleanliness. Eventually they start the healthy Kruschen habit. Then they start getting rid every day of all waste matter from the system. New, healthy blood goes coursing through the veins. And almost immediately they feel young, energetic and happy. In the morning they've got that famous "Kruschen Feeling."

Russians Cannot Send Food Through Mails

Attempts To Relieve Famine Discouraged By Soviets

Henceforth bread, flour, cereals, seed and other necessities will not be barred from the mails, the post-office announced.

It is hoped in this way to stop the voluntary and individual attempts to relieve famine which prevails in provinces bordering the sea.

In the past year there has been a shortage of food has become so serious throughout large areas of the Soviet Union that desperate methods of obtaining bread have been resorted to. Moscow and, to a lesser degree, other large cities have been jammed with peasants selling their last odds and ends of valuables for food. The stations swarmed with peasants, each staggering under a heavy sack full of bread, bound back to the provinces and the farms.

The capital has also found its way through the mails. Friends and relatives in the field have endeavored to relieve the suffering of their dear ones by occasional shipments of food. Food has not been plentiful in Moscow, but agile dodging about and discreet speculating has enabled many to accumulate a few loaves each or a few pounds of meat of some sort. Now this channel has been plugged. Peasants will henceforth either have to attempt to get aboard already hopelessly overcrowded trains for a personal visit to Moscow—or starve.

Did Not Heed Warning

Eight Calgary Residents Partially Blinded In Recent Eclipse

Eight Calgary citizens have received medical attention for varying degrees of blindness as result of watching the eclipse of the sun by the moon August 31, without the aid of proper eye glasses. It was shown in inquiries made to eye specialists.

One woman is almost totally blind in one eye while her other eye is slightly affected. Others suffered severe strain and were partially blind. Whether the affected persons will completely recover will not be known until treatment is further advanced. Practically all will be receiving attention for three or four months.

The average human body loses weight about one pound every eight hours by the evaporation of moisture through the lungs and the pores, and through exercise.

He was warning a little neighbor about being careful crossing streets. "Oh, don't worry," the bald, aged, "I always wait for the empty space to come by."

ELEVEN MEMBERS RESIGN FROM BRITISH CABINET

London, England.—Denouncing the whole policy of the Imperial Economic Conference at Ottawa as "imperilling the unity of the Empire," three cabinet ministers and eight other ministers resigned from the national government.

"To bring these trade questions into the forefront of the political field is to invite disagreements between Empire governments which will likely, sooner or later, become acute," declared the joint letter, in which two Liberal cabinet ministers and eight other Liberal ministers, not members of the cabinet, submitted their resignations.

Viscount Snowden of Ickneshaw, severing 40 years' close association with Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, was outspoken in denunciation of the proceedings at Ottawa and the agreements resulting, as he resigned from the cabinet in company with Sir Herbert Samuel, home secretary, and Sir Archibald Sinclair, secretary for Scotland.

"I am convinced," Lord Snowden wrote to the prime minister, "that the tariffs and imperialist policies which the Tories are carrying through are more dangerous in their permanent effect than the crisis of last year, which was temporary and yielded to drastic treatment."

The places of two of the cabinet ministers were immediately filled as Prime Minister MacDonald sought to retain the non-party character of the government. But the resignations, in effect, meant the removal from the ministry of the entire block of free traders.

Replying to the declarations which accompanied the resignations, the prime minister declared the task of the National government was not yet completed; that it must be completed.

In a statement issued over his name and those of Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, dominions' secretary, and Lord Sankey, Lord High Chancellor—National Laborites—Prime Minister MacDonald declared:

"We put our hands to a very big job 12 months ago. The same determination to disregard all ordinary partisan methods which we showed then we show still. The work is not finished and it cannot be finished until, one way or another, there is a repatriation and debts settlement, and there is a world economic conference and we must go on till these things are done."

"We make the same appeal to the electors," the Prime Minister added, "as we did 12 months ago—that the nation needs a non-party government, and that purely party considerations would weaken our national influence in the world and would be a blow at the movements now at work towards world recovery."

King Pledges Party To Lower Barriers

Liberal Leader Claims High Tariffs Stifle Trade

Exeter, Ont.—Declaring the development of Canadian industry and commerce had been thwarted and to a large measure paralyzed by the "excessively high tariffs, enacted by the present administration," Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, leader of the Liberal party, pledged his party to continue to seek the promotion of trade by the lowering of tariff barriers.

Speaking on behalf of W. H. Golding, Liberal candidate in the South Huron bye-election which wound up with polling on October 3, Mr. King strongly criticized what he termed attempts of government spokesmen to make the Imperial economic conference the issue in the contest.

Canada Unlikely To Enter Speedboat Race

Would Be Difficult To Conform To Harmsworth Trophy Rules

Detroit.—W. D. Edenhurst, chairman of the race committee of the Yachtmen's Association of America, stated he doubted whether Canada could put an entry into next year's speedboat races for the Harmsworth trophy and the world's championship.

Mr. Edenhurst quoted rules of the association to the effect competing boats must be designed by natives or naturalized subjects of the country from which they are entered and must be constructed wholly and in every respect in that country.

Bert Hawker, of Gravenhurst, Ont., boat designer who drove Miss Betty Carstairs' entry in the Harmsworth trophy in 1930, he said, had established at that time that he was an Englishman.

Hawker was mentioned in an announcement from Orillia, Ont., as the designer of a boat which an Orillia syndicate was considering entering in the 1933 races.

Construction of an engine of sufficient power to make its boat a contender in the race would cost the Canadian syndicate about $250,000, Mr. Edenhurst estimated.

Small Area In Building Unfilled For Grain Show

Regina, Sask.—Two-thirds of the available space in the new building at the exhibition grounds to house the World's Grain Show of next year has now been applied for.

Officials of the exhibition stated that the latest application for space in the building has been received from the Board of Grain Commissioners for Canada which body proposes to make up an exhibit of grain in the building at the time of the world's cereal show next year.

The exhibition of the grain commissioners will occupy a space of 1,500 square feet with 100 feet frontage. The main feature of the exhibit will be a demonstration of Canadian export grades and the influence of hard red spring wheat when mixed with the soft wheat of Europe upon the quality size and color of the bread loaf.

Attempt Assassination Of Calcutta Editor

Two Men Commit Suicide After Plan Failed

Calcutta, India.—Two men committed suicide by poison after failing in an attempt to assassinate Sir Alfred Watson, editor of the Statesman, a daily newspaper.

Sir Alfred was shot in both shoulders as he was motoring in the Maidan, a large park-like area in the heart of Calcutta. A third member of the group that tried to kill him escaped. Police found the automobile they used abandoned outside the city.

One of the bullets struck his chauffeur, who was seriously wounded, and another grazed the hand of Mrs. Rose Grosse, his secretary.

Frequent threats against the life of Sir Alfred have been made by extremists who have been made by the policies of his newspaper. Last August an attempt was made to kill him, but he escaped uninjured.

Threats Causes Anxiety
Tatishnar, Manchuria.—There is some anxiety here regarding the fate of 200 Japanese residents in the Manchuli and Hallar districts owing to an uprising of Chinese railway guards who are reported to be planning to kill all the Japanese they encounter.

Laborers' Pay Raised
Winnipeg, Man.—City council has made its first upward pay revision. A motion to increase wages of common laborers from 40 to 42½ cents an hour was passed by council on a vote of nine to eight.

Riot Reports Denied
Moscow, Russia.—The Soviet government denied reports that 100 Soviet workers were killed in food riots at Sverdlovsk. No riots took place at all, it is said, and the reports were characterized as "more Riga fabrications."

New Moderator Elected

Dr. T. A. Moore Appointed Head Of United Church

Hamilton, Ont.—Rev. Dr. T. Albert Moore, Toronto, secretary to the general council of the United Church of Canada, was elected sixth moderator of the church by the general council in session here.

The election was contested by Rev. Dr. Richard Roberts, pastor of Sherbourne Street United Church, Toronto, and by Rev. Dr. W. L. Armstrong, Trinity United Church, Toronto.

Secretary to the general council of the church since the union, Rev. Dr. Moore was for many years previously an outstanding figure in the Methodist Church.

A native of Acton, Ont., he began his career as a printer and publisher there, turning to the ministry he was ordained in 1884 after completing his studies at Wesleyan College, Montreal.

Planes Damaged By Storms In North

Aviators Carrying Supplies To Sub-Arctic Have Hard Time

Churchill, Man.—Fierce gales which lashed the rock-bound shores of Hudson Bay, and heavy fogs which made visibility difficult and delayed grain boats bound for this port, played havoc with the three Canadian Airways Junkers' planes, freighting from Eskimo Point to northern outposts, it was learned here.

The "Ju," heavy freighter, sustained serious damage to the pontoons and another of the Junker' planes may be out of commission for months.

During the past months misfortune have dogged the footsteps of aviators freighting in supplies to lonely settlements in the sub-arctic barrens, and fears are now entertained that food supplies may be running low at some points.

GLORIA'S HUSBY IN FILM DEBUT

Photographed in a little corner of England's Hollywood, just outside London, England, Gloria Swanson (extreme right) is shown casting a critical eye on a scene in which her husband, Michael Farmer, is acting with Genevieve Tobin before the movie camera. It was Farmer's first experience as an actor and he appears in the picture as Miss Tobin's husband.

Student Flyer's Death Caused By Accident

Parachute Used By Winters Property Ficked Stated Instructor

North Battleford.—After brief deliberation, the jury inquiring into the death of Charles J. Winters, Wilkie flying student, who crashed to his death when his parachute failed to open, returned a verdict of accidental death. No riders were included in the verdict.

Chief evidence was heard from George Bennett, R.C.A.F. instructor who has been instructing flying club students in the art of parachuting.

Bennett told the court he had made 1,098 jumps during his career and in only one instance had it been necessary to use the emergency chute. He had trained between 350 to 400 students, he stated. He voiced the opinion that Winters had taken off the wing of the plane in a somersault and had become entangled in the harness, causing the chute to stay closed. He stated definitely that the parachute was properly packed.

Pension Plan For Postmasters

Would Affect Only Those Receiving Under $3,000 Annually

Montreal, Que.—At the opening session of the annual convention of the Canadian Postmasters' Association, Quebec branch, C. D. Griffith, Estevan, Sask., outlined a superannuation plan for postmasters, which had been drawn up by a committee, of which he was a member, appointed by Hon. Arthur Sauve, Postmaster General. The plan provided for contributions to annuity funds to be made, half by the government and half by the postmasters. It would affect only those postmasters receiving under $3,000 annually, as those who receive more would come under the civil service pension scheme.

Hon. J. F. Bryant Officials At Ceremony In Prince Albert

Prince Albert.—Hon. J. F. Bryant, Minister of Public Works, officially open the new Prince Albert historical museum in Bryant Park.

The building which will house the historical relics is one of the first structures to have been built here. It was erected by Rev. James Nisbet and members of his party who landed here in 1886. For years it stood, gradually rotting away, until last year it was taken down and rebuilt in the park which is named after Mr. Bryant's father, a former resident here.

His birthplace. Representatives of every walk of life paid tribute to the memory of one of Canada's most brilliant sons at the funeral.

HURRICANE LOSS AT PORTO RICO IS VERY HEAVY

San Juan, Porto Rico.—More than 300 persons were killed and at least 1,000 were injured in the hurricane which swept across Porto Rico, Governor James Beverley estimated after receiving casualty reports from police authorities.

The governor told an emergency relief committee of San Juan citizens that the total dead and injured probably would be revised upward instead of downward when additional reports had been received.

The committee was organized pending a direct appeal to the United States Red Cross for badly needed assistance.

Starting shortly before midnight, a 120-mile wind lashed San Juan and the hinterland, wrecking buildings, ripping the roofs from houses, blowing down their side walls, and ruining the valuable citrus fruit and coffee crops.

Loss in the fruit crop alone was estimated at $7,000,000. After a personal inspection of part of the area of devastation, Governor Beverley said the damage to the coffee crop would be even greater.

When the storm left Porto Rico and headed westward toward San Domingo, communications in the island had not been restored. It appeared probable that when all outlying points had been heard from the death toll would be considerably higher.

Work of relief and repair got under way in such confusion that it was impossible to determine how high the number of injured would be, but it was apparent hundreds had been hurt. Thousands of persons were left homeless.

The storm put San Juan's water and light facilities out of commission. A new transmission line must be built before power can be furnished for pumping water six miles from the reservoir. Arrangements for a temporary water supply, imperative for reasons of sanitation, were being rushed.

Montreal, Que.—Eliminating the present 10-hour lay-over at Winnipeg, the new schedule of the Continental Limited between Montreal and Vancouver became effective with the departure of that train from Montreal and Toronto on the night of Friday, Sept. 30. It was announced by the Canadian National Railways.

The new schedule became effective eastbound from Vancouver on Saturday, October 1, and eliminates a 10-hour lay-over at Winnipeg.

Mrs. Fong Believes in Signs.

One of the wonders of modern travel is the case of pretty Mrs. Fong Shoo, formerly of Soi Ping, Kwang Tung, China, who crossed the Pacific Ocean and proceeded by Canadian National train to join her husband in Hartford, Connecticut. She speaks not a word of English, yet porters and dining car stewards were able to serve her every need by a system of signs and written requests. She had only to indicate travel No— written in two languages.

"The Price of Wheat."

During the past 500 years there have been three major wars—Thirty Years' War in Germany; Napoleonic Wars and World War. The price of wheat and all other commodities rose sharply during and immediately after each war, then gradually fell, many commodities to even lower levels than when the wars started. During a war prices rises sharply because all governments print large amounts of paper money and because all classes of people indulge in speculative purchases, all of which increases the amount of money and so raises prices. When people lose confidence in the paper money which is unsupported by metal or commodities, and when the bubble of speculation is punctured, then the unnaturally high prices, due to paper credit, fall to the level justified by the amount of gold or silver available and in use for money purposes. High prices in the meantime had induced a greatly increased production of necessities and luxuries for which the suddenly poorer consumers had no effective demand—then unsold surpluses pile up and cause a further price decline. So, two causes reduce prices—the loss of confidence in inflated credit money, and the accumulated surplus over the demand.

Contrives to Muddle Thru.

John Bull is a pompous, choleric chap at times, and one can find a lot of things to point an accusing finger at in his back yard, but he has his points, says the St. Louis Post Despatch. John doesn't whine, and he never "welches" and, without preaching it very much, he has practised the philosophy of the copybook maxim that honesty is the best policy. The old boy pays. The going was a bit rough recently: still, when he wanted to borrow a couple of hundred million dollars last summer the U.S. bankers were glad to accommodate him. They knew their man. Things are a bit easier with him now and what does he do? Characteristically, he pays. He has paid $150,000,000 of that loan. His name is John Bull; home address, London, Eng.; familiar figure in all capitals of the world, involved in pretty much all the crises of history, and, somehow or other contriving to muddle thru.

New Municipal Districts.

What the Provincial Government's proposed plan of enlarged municipal districts will mean in the way of a re-arrangement of the province will be shown in a map prepared by the Dept. of Municipal Affairs to be available to the public in a short time.

The plan is to create some 40 enlarged municipal areas by amalgamation into suitable groups the 166 M.D.s now in existence, together with 143 L.I.D.s at present administered from Edmonton.

The main object is to secure greater efficiency and effect economy in administration. A saving of $250,000 can be made in the M.D.s alone, and a further saving in the transfer of the control of the L.I.D.s.

Hansen's Corners.

The threshers finished work this week on the Don Macdonald grain fields; where a good yield is reported.

Ever since the duck season opened there has been a number of shooters in the grain fields and around the lakes. If they are having much success we can but surmise, but they are sure making themselves heard.

There had been some trucks hauling grain from this district before the roads and the price of wheat got so poor.

The hum of the threshers seems to have overpowered the hum of the politicians for the time being. However, altho little has been heard lately about the coming campaign, we may rest assured that our local politicians will shortly start broadcasting.

Hansen Corners U.F.W.A. is very much alive these days. A Community library is being established; fees 5c per book a month; the money to be used in purchasing books.

The girl approached with a sniff "Ah," she said, "I thought I smelt something when I walked up the hill."

She found Blaise's cold, measured, elderly-brotherly kindness unendurable, and she exhausted herself beating continually against the rock of his determination, without producing any effect other than to make his manner even more austere, less friendly than it had been before.

Then when she recognized her total inability to move him to any sort of responsive emotion, and that her beauty—which was undeniable—made no more impression upon him than if he had been blind, she resorted to the old, painfully familiar weapons of tears and fits of temper, in the course of which she would upbraid him bitterly, pouring forth streams of reproaches which more often than not culminated in an attack of hysterics. All of which Blaise bore with a curious, stoical self-control. It seemed as though the Tormarin temper had been exorcised, as if that fierce storm of anger provoked by Madame de Varigny's taunts, and which had so nearly resulted in a tragedy, had shocked Blaise into realization of the terrible latent possibilities of the family failing and the absolute necessity for an iron self-government.

For weeks he supported Nesta's petty grills and ebullitions of temper with illimitable patience, and it was only when, trading on his unaccustomed forbearance, she ventured too far, that she was brought very suddenly to understand that there was a limit beyond which she might not go.

"I know why you no longer love me," she told him at last, on an occasion when she had been vainly endeavouring, by every feminine blandishment and will of which she was mistress, to evoke from him some sign of an awakening "tendresse."

"I know!"
She nodded her dark head significantly, while pin-points of jealous anger flickered in her long, narrow eyes, black as midnight.

"Then, if you know," replied Tormarin patiently, "it is surely most foolish of you to keep asking why I do not. Why can't you content yourself with things as they are, Nesta? We can only wish to make the best of a bad job. You don't help me much in the matter."

"I don't want to help you," she retorted viciously. "I want you to love me. And you won't because of that washed-out-looking, carry-bag-like woman who is living with Lady Lattimer. And she's in love with you, too!"

"No! I won't be quiet! Oh—"

her voice rising hysterically—"You think I don't notice things, but I do. I do, I tell you!"

ALMOST

HER BACK

Aching back? Will it never stop? She's nearly desperate. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has relieved "female troubles" for over 50 years.

W. N. U. 1929

She sprang from the couch, where she had been looting indolently amid a heap of cushions, and crossed the room to his side.

"Do you hear me?" she cried violently, shaking him by the arm. "You think I'm a blind fool! But I'm not! I'm not! I've seen that Peterson woman look at you like a cat looking through the larder window—"

Suddenly she felt Blaise's hand clapped against her lips, stemming the torrent of vulgar recrimination and abuse that poured from them. He held it there quite gently, so as not to hurt her, but immovably, and she had no choice but to be silent.

"Listen to me," he said quietly. "It is quite true what you say—that I love Jean Peterson, and that she loves me. But we have given up our love, and with it our hope of happiness in this world, for you. In return, you will give up something for us. You will give up the infinite pleasure you appear to derive from vilifying and bespitting a woman who is as much about you as the hairs are above the earth, whose conception of love is as fine and pure as yours is mean and commonplace and jealous. You will never again speak of Miss Peterson with anything but respect, nor will you ever again refer to the love which you now know for a fact exists between us. Your lips will only speak for us. If you do, if you disobey my commands in either of these respects, you go out of my house that same day. And you don't return."

He released her and had the satisfaction, for once, of perceiving that she believed he meant what he said. Presumably she came to the conclusion that, in the circumstances, discretion was the better part of valour, for she made no attempt to challenge his determination in the matter.

At the same time, unknown to him, she compelled Jean to pay for the silence enforced upon her at home. With a species of venom, absurdly childish in its manifestation, she essayed to excite Jean's envy by constantly enlarging to her upon the subject of Blaise's perfections as a husband, drawing intricate imaginary descriptions of the attention he paid her and of his constant solicitude for her welfare, and vaunting her happiness at being his wife.

"I am so proud to have won so fine and splendid a husband," she would declare fervently. "Would you not feel the same, Miss Peterson, if you were me?"

And Jean would make answer, outwardly unmoved:

"Indeed I should. You ought to be a very happy woman, Mrs. Tormarin."

The quiet composure which Jean invariably possessed in these gnat-like attacks annoyed Nesta intensely. Endowed with all the petty jealousy of a small statue, she herself, had the situation been reversed, would have found this pin-prick kind of warfare insupportable, and it made her furious that her best thought-out and most spiteful efforts failed to goad Jean into any expression of either anger or distress. The "cold" and "woman's" armour of indifference and reserve seemed to be impervious to no matter what poison-tipped dart she loosed against her.

Nesta felt that, as the woman in possession, she was missing half the satisfaction in life by reason of her inability to triumph openly over the other woman—the woman without the grace. Finally, at the end of her resources of innuendo and allusion, she tried the effect of open warfare.

She had driven over to Charwood to call, and, as Claire was away, spending the afternoon with friends, Jean had performed to entertain her undesired visitor alone. It was just as she was preparing to take her departure that Nesta launched her attack.

"You look so ill, Miss Peterson," she remarked commiseratingly. "So pale and worn! It doesn't suit you, I am sure, for of course you must have been very pretty at one time for my husband to have wished to marry you."

Jean stared at her without reply. The outrageous speech almost took her breath away by its sheer, impudent brazenness.

"There!" Nesta feigned dismay. "Now I have offended you! And I so want you to be good friends. But of course—quickly—"It is difficult for you to feel friendly towards the wife of Blaise. I can understand that. I suppose"—her head a little tilted to one side like that of an enquiring robin and her eyes fastened on the other's white face with merciless, gimlet gaze that sliced Jean with helpless rage—"It supposed you loved him very much?"

Jean felt the blood rush into her cheeks and caught a responsive gleam of satisfaction in the other's half-closed eyes.

"I think that is hardly a subject which can be discussed between us," she said, with a supreme effort at self-control.

And then to her unbounded thankfulness, Tucker threw open the door and announced that Mrs. Tormarin's car was waiting.

This open declaration of hostility on Nesta's part gave Jean food for reflection. Briefly she recounted the incident to Claire, adding:

"It means I must not go to Staps again. If she intends to adopt that attitude, it would make a situation which is already quite difficult enough hopelessly impossible."

The two girls were pacing up and down the terrace at Charwood together when Jean indicated the consequences of Nesta's visit, and Claire, sensing the pain in her friend's voice, pressed her arm sympathetically. But she said nothing. What was there to say? Within herself, she felt that Jean's determination to scow the Tormarin message, altogether was the only wise one.

"Poor Blaise!" pursued Jean, a slight tremor in her voice. "He has the hardest part to bear. She must make life hideously difficult for him."

Claire nodded joyfully.

"Yes, he is looking fagged and strained. Horrid little beast!" she added with unusual vehemence. "Why on earth couldn't she have stayed dead?"

Jean laughed joyfully.

"Why indeed?—Only she never really died, you know."

"Yes," Claire's hand crept further along the other's arm and the kind little fingers sought and clasped Jean's own—"It you knew how miserable I am about you! It makes me feel wicked—disgustingly so—and wicked!—to be so happy myself when you have so much to bear."

There were tears in her voice, and Jean squeezed her hand reassuringly.

"My dear," she said earnestly, "you had your black years if anyone ever had! If a woman ever deserved her happiness at last, you do. . . I suppose we all get our share of trouble in this world," she went on thoughtfully. "I remember the first time I ever met Blaise—that day at Montevideo, you know—he said that Destiny, with her snuffers, came to most of us sooner or later and snuffed out our light of happiness. Well—rather drearily—"I suppose it's my turn now and she's come to me. That's all."

A little while blew up from the valley, chill and complaining. Autumn had the world at her mercy now, and a grey mist was rising from the sodden fields, soaked by the continual rains of the preceding fortnight.

Claire shivered.

"Let's go in," she said. "It's growing too cold to stay out any longer. Besides, it's depressing. Grey skies, bare branches—Oh! How I detest the autumn!" They turned and retraced their steps to the house. As they entered by way of the front door, they caught a glimpse of the postman making his way briskly down the drive. A solitary letter lay upon the hall table, addressed to Jean in a rather flourishy copper-plate style of writing.

"A bill, I suppose," she commented indifferently.

She picked it up carelessly, carrying it unopened to her room. Nor did she open it immediately upon arriving there, stopping first to remove her hat and coat.

When at last she slit the envelope she found that it was no tradesman's bill, as she had imagined, but a letter from Glyn Peterson's family solicitor, announcing, in the stiff phraseology without which no lawyer seems able to express himself, the sudden death of her father.

Jean sat down abruptly, her legs seeming all at once to give way under her, she could not grasp it—could not realize that the witty, charming personality which, after all, in spite of Peterson's lack of the more conventional paternal attributes and moat servants was before the news of his death had reached his lawyer, who had immediately communicated it to Jean.

By his will, everything he possessed, except for a certain sum set aside to cover a few legacies to old and valued servants was left to Jean, and with the quaint whimsicality which was characteristic of him he had particularly mentioned: "Beltrina, the House of Dreams-Come-True."

The little phrase, with its suggestion of joyous commination, stabbed her with a sharp thrill of pain. Greeting her, as it did, at the moment when all her hopes of happiness were lying trampled beneath the iron heel of hostile destiny, it seemed to add a last touch of irony to the bitterness of the blow she was to receive.

The House of Dreams-Come-True!

In the solitude and silence of her room Jean laughed out loud at the mockery of it! But her breath caught in her throat, sobbingly, and then quite suddenly the merciful, healing tears began to fall, and, laying her head down on her arms, she cried unrestrainedly.

"I've used Wonder Paper now. You buy it in a neat package that tucks away handily in a table drawer. Twenty-five large sheets for a quarter. When you use it, you simply crumple a sheet into a soft wad and go over whatever needs attention."

"I've never seen anything like Wonder Paper. It really dusts, cleans and polishes at the same time. It takes up dirt like magic, and so easily. And you can use both sides."

"What I used to loathe about dusting was the bother of keeping the dustpan clean. I always used odds and ends of old shirts and the like—and it seemed to me I was eternally washing them. It worried me just to throw them into a bag or cupboard. They seemed so unsanitary."

"The beauty of Wonder Paper is that you throw it away when you're through with it."

"I can promise that you'll like Wonder Paper. It gives you time for things very much more attractive than dusting."

Malawski vs. Walton.

Claiming to have suffered severe injuries as the result of being knocked down by a car driven by the defendant on Portage ave., Edmonton, on Dec. 1, 1931, Dominik Malawski, a Granada farmer, commenced action before Mr Justice Ewing on Friday last, in Supreme Civil Court, Edmonton, to secure $5788 from H T Walton of Stony Plain.

The original claim is said to have been for the sum of $9155, when Malawski also claimed that defendant was driving on the wrong side of the road; was speeding; failed to sound the horn; and had faulty brakes.

Malawski stated, on the witness stand, that he suffered a multiple fracture of the skull, fracture of the right parietal, and has lost the hearing of one ear. Witness also stated he had been treated in hospital for a period extending over a month's time following the accident, and that his efficiency as a farmer had been greatly impaired as a result of the injury.

After more evidence had been taken, the case was given a two weeks' adjournment.
